DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

Claims 1 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(a) as being anticipated by Anderson et al. (6,962,399).

Anderson et al teach an inkjet recording apparatus comprising:

Claim 1:

- operating means for operating the inkjet apparatus and for changing a set up (figure 1, figure 5 teaches switching to a lower resolution mode)
- remaining amount management means for managing a remaining amount of ink in an ink tank (column 7, lines 9-11)
- mode change means for, when it is determined that following the consumption of ink, the remaining amount of ink in the ink tank managed by the remaining amount management means has reached zero, switching between a first operating mode in which thereafter a recording operation using the recording head is inhibited, and a second mode in which the continuance of the recording operation is enabled regardless of the remaining amount of ink managed by the remaining amount management means (figure 5, step 100, step 102, and step 106)

- control means for, when performance of the recording operation is instructed in the second operating mode, permitting the performance of the recording operation after a user's manipulation through the operating means (column 1, lines 25-35 teach user can maneuver printing modes such as change to a lower resolution mode)

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claim 9 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Wetchler et al. (6,196,663).

Wetchler et al teach a printing method comprising:

- switching, when the remaining amount of ink to be managed is reduced, between a first operating mode in which the performance of a recording operation is inhibited and a second operating mode in which the performance of the recording operation is enabled (column 9, lines 44-50 teach when black ink is running low, usage of black is stopped and printing is switched to a mode where cyan, magenta, and yellow inks are used to create a processed ink)
- confirming when performance of the recording operation is instructed in the second operating mode, whether a predetermined manipulation has been performed through operating means provided for the inkjet recording apparatus (figure 7, step 80)

Art Unit: 2861

- controlling the performance of the recording operation to be permitted after the predetermined manipulation has been performed by a user (figure 7, steps 88)

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 2-8 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
